IAWA MISSION STATEMENT

Founded in 1988, the International Aviation Womens Association (IAWA) brings together women of achievement in the aviation industry and promotes their advancement internationally through the establishment of a worldwide network of aviation professional contacts. IAWA is an international organization for women who hold senior positions in the aviation and aerospace industry including in airline, airport, finance, insurance, law, manufacturing, operations, suppliers and government.

As the industry adjusts to worldwide economic and political change, women are assuming greater and more visible roles. Through annual conferences, IAWA provides a forum to share views on matters of importance to the industry, as well as to women generally. Although women generally should have five years management-level experience in the industry, or comparable experience, to join IAWA, our Annual Conference is open to attendance by non-members. Take advantage of this opportunity to meet and network with some truly extraordinary people who share the common interests of promoting aviation and advancing women in the industry.

A BRIEF INTRODUCTION OF CAAC

The General Administration of Civil Aviation of China (CAAC) is a government agency directly under the State Council responsible for the nation's civil aviation-related affairs. Its major functions include safety and security regulation, market regulation, air traffic management, macro economic control and international relations in the field of civil aviation. The CAAC comprises twelve departments including the Administrative Office, Aviation Safety Office, Department of Policy Law and Regulations, Department of Planning Development and Finance, Department of Personnel Science and Education, Department of International Affairs and Cooperation, Department of Air Transport, Department of Flight Standard, Department of Aircraft Airworthiness, Department of Airport and Aviation Security Bureau. Under the CAAC there are seven regional administrations responsible for civil aviation industrial regulation and supervision in their respective geographical areas.
