Coordinator, Office of the General Counsel
Airlines for America

After leaving in the field of survey collection, data, and research, Ivon Aheart joined Airlines for America (A4A) in 2019. In her current role as Coordinator of the Office of the General Counsel, Ivon ensures all aspects of office management, accounting, and logistical operations run efficiently. She has extensive knowledge of aviation systems, corporate operations, and government cross functions; which she utilizes to create a harmonious balance between executive level management and C-Suite personnel both internally and externally.

Recognizing gender disparities within the aviation industry, Ivon began tirelessly working to create initiatives that support change. She co-chairs the A4A Women for Aviation initiative, which focuses on the efforts being made to provide diversity, equity, and inclusivity across all positions, for women, within aviation. In addition to her efforts within A4A, she is a member of the Organization of Black Aerospace Professionals (OBAP), Women for Aviation International (WAI), and the International Aviation Women's Association (IAWA). She holds a B.S. in Psychology from the University of Maryland and is certified in Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion in the Workplace from University of South Florida College of Business.
