

Nicole Halverson is an aviation business professional beginning her career in 2004 at CIT within CIT Commercial Air and later CIT Business Aircraft Finance. She held positions as Vice President, Sales, Americas, where she managed CIT's originations of business aircraft financings as well as Vice President, Aircraft Trading and Syndications, where she was responsible for optimizing the business aircraft portfolio through acquisitions, syndications, and divestments.

In 2016, Nicole joined her husband in starting (and growing) a successful sales agency within the commercial construction industry. She deepened her knowledge in owning a business, contractor payroll, as well as further developing leadership skills and exceptional customer service. Following the successful merger of this company, she is excited to return to the business aviation industry in January 2023.

She holds a private pilot license, is a member of International Aviation Women's Association, has a passion for nutrition, and loves spending time with her family skiing, hiking, or anything outdoors.