

PAOLA WONG

Officer of the Peruvian Air Force

"Paola Wong is an officer of the Peruvian Air Force. She has a master's degree in Space Technology Application by the University of Aeronautics and Astronautics of Beijing and a Bachelor in Air and Space Administration by the Peruvian Air Force. She was part of the management team of the first satellite system PERUSAT-1. In 2019 She was selected by the United States Department of State as the Peruvian representative in the "International Visitor Leadership Program 2019: Women in STEAM". Currently, she is the head of the FAP radar squad for aircraft control; and also, she is the Director of the project "STEAM in my School", which is a social program that seeks to bring knowledge of robotics and programming to the most needy teachers and students and contribute to reducing the existing digital gap."